

http://www.getwestlondon.co.uk/news/local-news/young-people-start-filming-for-qpr-documentary

File Edit View Favorites Tools Help

Sugg... Sere... Subs... Twit... Home... Sere... Octa... QPR... Offi... Home... Exce... Web... Desk... Down... Rece...

Young people start filming for QPR documentary

Feb 14, 2014 13:10 By Poppy Bradbury

The Story of QPR captures the football club's relationship with neighbours over nearly a century in White City

10 Shares Share Tweet +1 Email

Yannis Mendez, Michael Hagan and Jonathan Franco get behind the camera

Young people have got behind the camera to shoot a documentary on the history of QPR Football Club.

The Story of QPR is a project by QPR in the Community Trust and London charity Octavia Foundation to document nearly 100 years of the Championship side being based in White City.

Twenty people aged 16 to 24 who are not in education, employment or training (NEETs) have been selected to produce a film, podcast, soundtrack and website.

Login with Facebook

Most Read in News

- Local News
End of an era as Randall's of Uxbridge closes
- Accident
Two pedestrians injured after hit-and-run in Isleworth
- Police Apprehend
E-fit image of Chiswick serial sex attacker released
- Local News
Could you pass a UK Citizenship test? Take our quiz
- Crime
Woman's body stuck under lorry for over five hours after dying instantly in Chelsea collision

http://www.getwestlondon.co.uk/news/local-news/young-people-start-filming-for-qpr-documentary

File Edit View Favorites Tools Help

Sugg... Sere... Subs... Twit... Home... Sere... Octa... QPR... Offi... Home... Exce... Web... Desk... Down... Rece...

Young people have got behind the camera to shoot a documentary on the history of QPR Football Club.

The Story of QPR is a project by QPR in the Community Trust and London charity Octavia Foundation to document nearly 100 years of the Championship side being based in White City.

Twenty people aged 16 to 24 who are not in education, employment or training (NEETs) have been selected to produce a film, podcast, soundtrack and website, helping them gain skills in filmmaking and media.

The Heritage Lottery Funded has gifted £52,300 towards the project, which will support two paid jobs roles.

Serena Williamson, project manager, said: "For all the young people who get involved in the project, it is a chance to grow and develop as individuals through helping to tell the fascinating story of the QPR heritage in really engaging, creative and varied ways."

Filming for the documentary started last week when youngsters filmed QPR in the Community's Extra Time club for over 60s, who took part in a salsa class at the Loftus Road stadium.

Local News

- Could you pass a UK Citizenship test? Take our quiz
- Woman's body stuck under lorry for over five hours after dying instantly in Chelsea collision

Need a Mechanic? >

Free quotes from your local rated mechanics

Who can fix my car?

WATCH VIDEO

Most Recent in News

Christmas
In pictures: House O Christmas comes to life in Bedfont

Christmas
Pictures: Christmas Jumper Day in west London

Schools
Christmas fun day for Hillingdon and...

The Story of QPR is a project by QPR in the Community Trust and London charity Octavia Foundation to document nearly 100 years of the Championship side being based in White City.

Twenty people aged 16 to 24 who are not in education, employment or training (NEETs) have been selected to produce a film, podcast, soundtrack and website, helping them gain skills in filmmaking and media.

The Heritage Lottery Funded has gifted £52,300 towards the project, which will support two paid jobs roles.

Serena Williamson, project manager, said: "For all the young people who get involved in the project, it is a chance to grow and develop as individuals through helping to tell the fascinating story of the QPR heritage in really engaging, creative and varied ways."

Filming for the documentary started last week when youngsters filmed QPR in the Community's Extra Time club for over 60s, who took part in a salsa class at the Loftus Road stadium.

The Story of QPR: Ayo Bodanrin, Alexander Ward, Alice Innoiside and Ross Norman

Woman's body stuck under lorry for over five hours after dying instantly in Chelsea collision

Need a Mechanic? - Free quotes from your local rated mechanics

Most Recent in News

In pictures: House O Christmas comes to life in Bedford

Pictures: Christmas Jumper Day in west London

Christmas fun day for Hillingdon and Uxbridge youngsters held at Brunel University